

I agree with the Arrl attempt to remove CW morse testing for certain types of ham radio licensing.

Although this mode is still used today it is not a priority in the ham community.

The restriction of hams due to this perticular type of testing has had no good effect to the Ham radio what so ever.